

MICHAEL K. WINOGRAD
WARD THREE COUNCIL CANDIDATE

In the time we've lived here, I have met a surprisingly high number of business owners and residents of the city of Keene who believe the local government is not listening to their needs. My neighbors say hello while I walk our four dogs, and they ask how long I've lived here, how I like it, then casually segue into conversations about the city's many issues. My neighbors appear to have lost faith in the local political system. As a U. S. Army veteran, retired Central Intelligence Agency Senior Operations Manager, and former University Adjunct Professor, I understand that I have a unique background with knowledge of International, State and Municipal government operations as well as experience in management at the highest levels. I would like the opportunity to use my background and experience to help restore my neighbors' faith in city government. I am proud to call this great city my home and I look forward to serving both its businesses and residents.
