

MEMORANDUM

To: Joint Committee of the Planning Board and PLD Committee

Subject: O-2026-09 Relating to Short-term Rental Uses

Overview

This ordinance proposes to establish a use definition and use standards for “Short-term Rental” in Article 8 of the Land Development Code and allow this use with limitations in the following districts: Rural, Residential Preservation, Low Density, Low Density 1, Medium Density, High Density, High Density 1, Downtown Transition, Commerce, Neighborhood Business, Business Growth and Reuse, Office, and Agriculture. The intent of this proposed change is to support wealth-building opportunities for Keene residents, ensure the health and safety of short-term rental guests, preserve the residential character of Keene’s neighborhoods, and protect quality of life for abutting residences.

Background

Short-term Rentals (STRs) are residential dwellings that are rented in whole or in part for a fee to guests for a duration of less than 30 days. STRs are often rented out using an online platform, such as VRBO, Airbnb, Home Away, etc. The City’s zoning code does not include a definition for STRs, and they are currently treated the same as residential dwellings. However, if the proposed change to the definition of “family” is adopted, the zoning regulations would explicitly not allow for this use in residential districts due to its transient nature.

website: www.getinvolvedburlington.ca/strentals*

The number of active short-term rentals in Keene varies based on the time of year. For example, a search on Airbnb for a rental for two guests during the month of June 2026 (conducted in late April 2026) yielded 40 rental options within City limits, most of which are in or close to downtown. The same search for a week-long stay during other months of the year yielded anywhere from 29 to 42 results. This is consistent with data from the 2023 Housing Needs Assessment, which utilized CoStar data and found that there were only 50 short-term rentals in Keene (0.5% of housing stock).

Based on conversations with City code enforcement, police, and fire staff, STRs do not appear to generate a large volume of complaints or emergency calls as compared to long-term residences.

Any nuisances generated by STRs are currently handled through the standard complaint-based code enforcement process.

FlashVote Survey Results

A FlashVote survey conducted in May 2026 found that, out of 301 respondents, 21% said that there is not a short-term rental in their neighborhood, 14% suspect there is an STR in their neighborhood, and 15% said there is an STR in their neighborhood. Only two respondents own a short-term rental in Keene, and half (149 out of 300) said they are not sure if an STR is in their neighborhood.

Of the 42 respondents who said they know there is an STR in their neighborhood and answered question two, 46% said they have not experienced any of the nuisances in the list of options. In contrast, of the respondents who said that they know there are not any STRs in their neighborhood, 61% said they have not experienced any of the nuisances listed. If all responses are included, 56% (149 out of 267) said they have not experienced any of the nuisances listed (Figure 2). This suggests that those located in a neighborhood with at least one known STR are slightly more likely to experience nuisances related to cars/traffic, loud noises, garbage, uncomfortable interactions with renters, and outdoor lights being left on all night (other than a front porch light). Given the fact that the majority of short-term rentals are located in or near the downtown, this suggests that nuisances are more prevalent in and near the downtown where overall rental rates are higher and there are more mixed-use areas with residences next to commercial uses.

Q2 In the last 12 months, which of the following have you personally experienced in your neighborhood, if any? (Choose all that apply)

Responses to Question 3 revealed that the most important potential benefit of STRs to the community is “More visitors support local/small businesses” (43%), followed by offering better lodging options (35%) and making property ownership more affordable (31%). Other benefits noted include offering less expensive lodging options for visitors (29%), properties are better maintained (19%), and weekdays are quieter when properties are empty (3%). Twenty-eight percent of respondents to this question said they don’t care about any of these benefits, and 7% said “Other.” Most of the responses under “other” were about the drawbacks of STRs such as loss of long-term housing, affordability concerns, impacts to neighborhoods/communities, and perceived lack of local benefit (Figure 3).

Q3 Which of the following potential benefits of short-term rentals are most important to you, if any?
(You can choose up to FOUR, if any)

(267 responses)

Question 4 of the survey asked respondents to choose all statements that they agree with. This question revealed some differences among respondents based on whether they said that they live near, or suspect that they live near, a short-term rental. The bar graph in Figure 4 shows the responses to this question filtered by people who said there is an STR in their neighborhood, shown in yellow, and responses filtered by those who said there is not an STR in their neighborhood, shown in blue. While both groups show overall alignment, there are notable differences. For example, among respondents who do not live near an STR, more agreed with the statement “I don’t think STRs are a real problem in Keene” than those who agreed with the statement “I think STRs are a major problem in Keene” (48% vs. 6%). However, among those who live near an STR, the reverse was true (24% vs. 27%).

There were 53 respondents (20%) who wrote a response to the prompt “I think ___” in Question 4. These written comments reflect a wide range of views on STRs, although most expressed concern about their impact on housing availability and affordability. A few comments expressed concern that investors purchasing homes for STR use could displace residents and first-time homebuyers. Several comments focused on neighborhood quality-of-life concerns, including parking, noise, and the erosion of community connections. Some respondents said they would not want an STR on their street because they value stable neighbors and neighborhood relationships. However, many favor regulation rather than outright prohibition. A minority of responses viewed STRs positively, noting they can benefit the community if carefully managed.

Q4 Which of the following statements about short-term rentals (STRs) do you AGREE with, if any? (Choose all that apply)

Figure 4. A bar graph that shows responses to Question 4 of the FlashVote survey, filtered by respondents who do not live near a short-term rental (blue) and those that do (yellow).

Question 5 was an open-ended question that received 74 responses and once again showed a wide range of views. Overall, the responses to this question suggest that respondents are primarily concerned about preserving affordable long-term housing and neighborhood stability but see the need for balancing those concerns with potential economic and tourism benefits. A recurring theme was opposition to absentee or corporate landlords, with respondents expressing greater comfort with locally owned, small-scale, or home-sharing arrangements. Many favored stronger oversight, limits on investor-owned STRs, and policies that prioritize housing for permanent residents over commercial short-term lodging.

A full summary of the survey responses can be reviewed online or in the attached PDF summary generated by the FlashVote platform.

Overview of Proposed Ordinance

This ordinance would formally recognize short-term rental properties by creating a use definition in Article 8 under the category of "Commercial Uses," as follows:

Short-term Rental (STR) - A dwelling or any portion thereof that the owner or the lessee of the dwelling offers for occupancy, for a fee, for fewer than 30 consecutive days. Short-term Rentals can be hosted, where the dwelling is the primary residence of the owner or lessee, or non-hosted, where the dwelling is not the primary residence of the owner or lessee.

This definition differentiates between short-term rentals that are "hosted" where the unit is the primary residence of the individual(s) renting out the property, and non-hosted, where it is not the primary residence. In New Hampshire, a primary residence (or "domicile") is defined as a person's principal place of physical presence to the exclusion of all other places. It is where a person lives most of the year (more than six months). Temporary absences, such as vacationing down south for a few months in the winter, do not void your residency if you intend to return. From an enforcement perspective, determining whether a location is someone's primary residence can be determined with a valid NH driver license or other official ID and registering your vehicle in the state, registering to vote in Keene, filing taxes as a resident, and using the address on official government and financial documents.

Two use standards are proposed for this use. The first requires that the STR property maintains a residential appearance if located in a residential district, and the second requires any non-hosted STR to post the contact information for the owner or their agent. If the owner or their agent does not live within one hour drive of the STR property, then the owner must post emergency contact information for someone who does live within an hour of the property.

Short-term rentals are proposed to be allowed in all residential zoning districts and any zoning district where "Bed and Breakfast" is an allowed use. This includes Rural, Residential Preservation, Low Density, Low Density 1, Medium Density, High Density, High Density 1, Downtown Transition, Neighborhood Business, Business Growth and Reuse, Office, and Agriculture.

The intent of allowing this use in all residential districts is to allow for wealth-building opportunities for Keene residents. Staff also propose allowing this use in all districts where "Bed and Breakfast" is allowed due to the similarity between these two uses. The main difference between a "Bed and Breakfast" use and the proposed definition of short-term rental is the requirement for a Bed and Breakfast to provide meals to guests:

Bed and Breakfast - An owner- or operator-occupied single-family dwelling that provides lodging for a daily fee in guest rooms with no in-room cooking facilities (excluding microwaves and mini-refrigerators), and prepares meals for guests. (emphasis added)

Consistency with the Comprehensive Master Plan (CMP)

Within the “Livable Housing” pillar of the Master Plan, there are several aspirations and goals related to increasing affordability of housing and helping residents to age-in-place. For example, under the “Community and Social Fabric” topics in the Community Survey conducted as part of the Master Plan, 69% of respondents identified accommodating aging-in-place as important to shaping the future of Keene. Hosted short-term rental properties can help with this by providing an income stream for property owners who either have extra space or an extra unit on their property that they can rent out. This could be especially beneficial for residents on a fixed income.

Non-hosted STRs in residential districts are not supported in the “Livable Housing” pillar of the Master Plan; however, due to the small number of existing STRs in Keene and their relatively small share of the overall housing stock (~2%), staff do not believe that non-hosted STRs are having a significant impact on housing supply. If the number of STRs begins to increase in Keene, or if the city starts receiving complaints regarding nuisances from STR properties, the City Council could revisit STR use standards to address those specific issues at that time.

With respect to the “Thriving Economy” pillar, several goals revolve around supporting the “ecosystem” of small local businesses and ensuring the continued success of downtown merchants. Since most STRs in Keene are in or near the downtown, STR properties have the potential to positively impact downtown businesses that are within easy walking and biking distance of guests. In addition, STR properties often offer options that visitors are looking for, such as allowing pets or offering a unique atmosphere, which may help to attract visitors to Keene. Finally, certain STR properties are required to pay the NH Rooms and Meals tax, a portion of which comes back to the City to help pay for services and amenities that benefit all residents.

Discussion of Potential Impacts

Because short-term rentals already exist informally within the city, staff do not anticipate any immediate significant impacts from the proposed changes in this ordinance. The STR data available to staff shows that STRs do not take up a large share of the housing stock and are unlikely to have an impact on the overall housing supply and affordability.

Nuisances generated by STRs, such as loud noise, overflow parking, or rowdy behavior, will continue to be addressed through the city’s standard enforcement processes. Conversations with staff from the Police Department, Code Enforcement and the Fire Department revealed that calls and complaints related to STRs are rare and not as common as calls and complaints regarding long-term rental properties in Keene.

With respect to impacts to property values and neighborhood character, it is difficult to assess what that impact will be because there are various factors in play. While some might argue that STRs could lower adjacent property values, it is also possible that STR properties will be better maintained and could raise adjacent property values. A major factor in this equation is the overall concentration of STRs in a specific neighborhood. Neighborhoods with higher densities of stable households are generally able to accommodate more non-residential uses without sacrificing the sense of safety, community, and neighborhood character. However, once concentrations of non-residential uses, such as STRs and other transient uses start to go above one per block, the impacts start to negatively impact the crime rate and other indicators of neighborhood safety and social cohesion. Since the number of STRs in Keene is relatively low, this does not appear to be a concern yet for Keene. If STR numbers do start to increase, it may be worth revisiting the regulations that pertain to this use in the future.
